Art Unit: 1745

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1, 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kozu et al.-US 6,451,474. (Kozu) (New Rejection)

Reference is made to Figures 1 and 16 of Kozu; column 1, lines 5-16; column 8, line 47-column 10, line 26 where the wrapped member 11a seals the plate battery 3 and the same is received within the recess 15 within lower case 2b. The battery is used in a portable radio device. The anode and the cathode include a support member, that portion at the base or each of the terminals 12, 13 as seen in Figure 1. Also member 11b supports the battery terminals.

3. Claims 1 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Barbier et al.-US 6,218,041. (Barbier) (New Rejection)

See column 5, line 33 through column 6, line 20 of Barbier for a plate shaped battery including a wrapped portion 61, which wrapped portion is located in a recess 59-see Figure 5. The battery is used in a portable radio device in Barbier.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1745

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Koizu in view of Shiota et al.-US 6,703,162. (Shiota) (New Rejection)

The only claimed feature not taught by Koizu is the electrically conductive exterior member connected to either the anode or the cathode. Reference is made to the Abstract of Shiota along with all of the drawing Figures, Embodiment I, column 7, lines 26-29 and claim 1. These portions of Shiota set forth a battery including an exterior member with a conducting member attached to either the anode or the cathode. To have incorporated the exterior member of Shiota in the battery of Koizu would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in this art at the time the invention was made so that it would have been easier to connect the battery to a device to power the same.

Art Unit: 1745

This is because of attachment of the power of the battery to the device directly from the exterior member of the battery.

7. In view of the above new grounds of rejection, applicant's arguments are deemed moot.

8. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to John S. Maples whose telephone number is 571-272-1287. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Thursday, 6:15-3:45, and every other Friday.
